A DEATH BLOW

Was Given to Goebellism at the Lexington Convention.

The Following Are Extracts From Brown's Speech.

Gov. Brown spoke as follows:

"My Fellow Democrats: I am going on, nearing the sunset of life. The shadows are lengthening behind me. But standing before you to day, in my native State, I feel now that it is the proudest hour of my life. (Applause.) Heretofore I have gone before you with an undivided Democratic strength, with the united strength of my party sustaining me, with the supremacy of the flag that I wore, there was none of the family to dispute; but to-day, under exceptional conditions, I come now as a candidate, and I accept your nomination with gratitude and with pride. (Applause.)

"I come, I say, bearing your commission, which is disputed by a faction of our party. I am a Democrat of Democrats. (Applause.) For more than forty years, without faltering, I have voted the Democratic ticket, never having scratched one in my life; and to-day, when I have nearly reached the allotted span of human life, three score and ten, I find myself prompted by my conscience, by the respect I have for Kentucky and the dignity of Kentucky and American citizenship, to say to you that I refuse to support the nomination made by the so-called late Democratic convention at Louisville. (Applause.)

"I understand that it is the sentiment of this convention to give me, as my comrade in this fight, that untested gentleman, who is a citizen of Fayette county, Philip P. Johnson. (Applause.) With an unchallenged record as a soldier, with an undoubted character as a gentleman, I take off my hat to him in this contest, and salute him as one of Kentucky's bravest, without fear and without reproach.

"Bolters, do you call us? We two old men, have fought in the front ranks of Democratic battles. Bolters, do you call us? Is there a man in this audience to-night, is there a man in Kentucky animated by a sentiment of honesty and truth, who would say his heart or his hand was influenced by selfish ambition in assuming the places that we will be called upon to take? Not at all; not at all. It is to sustain your constitution; it is to sustain your laws; it is to sustain the dignity of Kentucky citizenship; it is for the vindication of freedom of elections (applause), guaranteed by our constitution, that we are here, and we are your nominees, not by any written bargain. (Applause.) Not by any combination. But as the spontaneous gift and commission of the true Democracy of Kentucky. (Applause.)

"You call us bolters? Go back and read your Declaration of Independence. Go back and read that immortal document penned by the hand of Jefferson. Consider the indictment that he brought against George III. Denial to the colonies of America of those rights that they felt were their birthright. Read that document carefully, and compare it to night with the indictment which we can bring against the late so-called Democratic convention at Louisville, and I tell you if I am a bolter, if Philip P. Johnson is a bolter, George Washington was a bolter, Patrick Henry was a bolter, and when we make our protest against the usurpations that we have seen, if the spirit of Jefferson to night could be called back to earth, and know the facts, I feel that that venerable patriot would lift his hands before this audience and say, 'Amen! God speed your mission. You are right.' (Applause.) I claim that the nominations of the Louisville convention were fraudulent. What are the facts in brief? A written bargain is admitted to divide the votes of contested Legislative district, thirty-two in number, between two candidates for the nomination for Governor. Subsequent verbal agreements were made. That convention consisted of 1,692 members. The contested seats were of thirty-two Legislative districts, embracing 332 delegates.

"Oh, Kentuckians, some of you trace your lineage away back to the days of Daniel Boone. Some of your ancestors were in the War of 1812. They were with Jackson at New Orleans. They were in the Revolution. They were upon one side or the other as heroes in the late civil struggle. What takes the Anglo-Saxon to battle? Invade his home, deny him his rights, put humiliation upon him, and though it may leave his children in beggary to take up the cause of self-defense, rather would he leave them in beggary than to leave them dishonored and as slaves.

"You saw this little upstart Judge—this Redwine. The Bible says, look not upon the wine when it is red, but he looked upon this wine that was red. He sat there as a Kentucky Czar, ruling by his usurpation, by his arbitrary decisions, sons of the year of 1779, and degrading in the very dust the manhood of Kentucky. Why they did not rebel then and there I don't understand. My God! I believe if the womanhood of Kentucky had been there and understood their rights, there would have been a row. (Laughter.)

"Now, I say that the nomination of Mr. Goebel was fraudulent. I wish to say, furthermore, there were 1,092 members of that convention, 332 seats contested, leaving over 700 men there sitting whose title was uncontested. Goebel and his ticket were fraudulently nominated by reason, in my opinion, of what I have stated, because the members of that ticket were accessories before and after the fact in the consummation of this scheme; but I Gen. P. Wat Hardin had been nominated—and he came within thirty-one votes of the nomination—his title would have been as clear as a star. (Applause.) Mr. Hardin received a majority of the uncontested votes of that convention, and Mr. Hardin was unassisted by any bargain, written or verbal.

"I want to give you facts tonight. I am a Democrat. You don't see a changed man before you. You don't see a man with a new catchword of political facts. You don't see a man who has changed his coat. I am here, as I said before, from a high sense of duty. I love my State, and I will save it, if I can, from the impending degradation that it is proposed to be put upon her.

"It is said that Bryan is coming to Kentucky to tell the Democrats of the State to vote for Mr. Goebel. When he comes I intend to see that the question is put to Mr. Bryan, as I have stated in my remarks here, if such be the undisputed history of that convention as to a bargain and the rulings of the Chairman, you will stand up before Kentuckians and say that that makes a good title to the nomination? He won't say it. (Cries of no, no.)

"I speak history and speak it not in vanity, but in self-defense. There is a record. There is my record that the malice of men cannot destroy. There is my record that the demagogue cannot disguise. (Applause.) There is my record before my fellow-citizens, and whenever read these accusations against me, or hear these damnable suspicions, remember they are made by cowards—I speak, perhaps, most too strongly, because I do not want to be offensive to anybody—but whenever you hear them, allow me to say, if you please, in self-defense, you tell them: 'There is Brown's record; where is yours?' (At this point there was a great demonstration of applause.)

"Has manhood fled to brutish beasts? Has all that has been said of the heroism of our State been a fable? 'No, thank heaven, no! The answer is in the audience here before me to night. There never assembled in Kentucky from the days of Daniel Boone until this evening an assembly of thousands of more intelligent men, of more manhood, of more influence, of more Christian dignity and decency than the people whom I see before me to-night. You are not disappointed office-seekers. You are not deadbeats. You are not fools.

"Gentlemen, before you I point you to the stars upon your flag and its stripes. I point you to the past of our glorious State. I turn you to the graves of your saviors. I ask you to look into the eyes of your children. I ask you to look into the mirror and behold yourselves. Are you ready to how down in abject submission? (Cries of 'No! No! Never!')

"To surrender your birthright under the name of party regularly, Party regularly! It means fraud; it means demagoguery; it means coalition of the political and judge to hoodwink by the legend of the political magicians the honored and honest men of this Commonwealth, and I feel from this meeting to night that you are coming, coming, Father Abraham, a hundred, strong. Go home and tell your neighbors whom you met here. Tell your neighbors what you heard here. Seek the facts, seek the truth, and all I ask of my fellow citizens is for a man not to surrender to his fears from selfish apprehension, but to obey the honest dictates of his conscience, and it is the honest vote of the honest man who loves free elections, civil liberty and good government that I intend to ask for and make my appeal for the approaching canvass. 'Truth crushed to earth will rise again, for the eternal years of God are here.' I feel that I am right, and that 'thrice is he armed who hath his quarrel just.'

"In the name of the principles of our forefathers, by all that we hold dear and dear, let us take a broom and sweep from the temple all that should not be near the altar where we make our prayers. Let us purify the ballot. Let us elevate the citizenship. Let us have the courage to maintain Kentucky manhood. Let us do it, and even if we fail, for from the blood of the martyrs is the seed of the church, and the man that fails to do his duty as next week or next year some good may come to him from silence or from cunning, it is not moral courage. He is doing that which shames his manhood; he is doing that which degrades his citizenship. (Applause.)

"My countrymen, thanking you for this nomination to-night, which I will wear as the jewel of my life (applause), as the greatest honor that was ever conferred upon me by the unthought vote of the brave manhood of Kentucky, I will maintain this cause as long and as far as my impaired strength will enable me to do—not in passion, not in anger, not in resentment toward any human being, not by invective and noise, froth and hurrah, but by plain, simple, earnest, truthful statement of the facts addressed to the independent judgment of fellow-citizens and feeling that my cause is just, I believe that God will be with the right. I thank you."

Remarkable Rescue.

Mrs. Michael Curtin, Pittsfield, Ill., makes the statement, that she caught cold, which settled on her lungs; she was treated by her family physician, but grew worse. He told her she was a hopeless victim of consumption and that no medicine could cure her. Her druggist suggested Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption; she bought a bottle and to her delight found herself benefited from first dose. She continued its use and after taking six bottles, found herself sound and well; now does her own housework, and is as well as she ever was.—Free trial bottles of this Great Discovery at J. H. Williams' Drug Store. Only 50 cents and $1.00, every bottle guaranteed.

The Fight Against Goebel.

To the Editor of the Evening Post: As a Kentuckian and an uncompromising Democrat, I cannot refrain from giving my unqualified indorsement to the course now being pursued by the Evening Post in the present political contest in Kentucky.

The native of the grand old Commonwealth who resides in other States, and who love honor in politics, are watching the situation with eagle eyes, and with hopes that Goebellism will be effectually buried. I have watched with interest the actions of former Democratic leaders, and the personnel of the followers of John Young Brown is a guarantee that "justice will not wear a crown of thorns." A Goebellite who is making himself especially obnoxious in Kentucky, and a man with whom I formerly had business relations in speaking to me on one occasion about trawlers and railroad employees, used these words: "These fellows, like the negroes, should not be allowed to vote. They are too ignorant and unreliable." He made this remark because they refused to support him for an office, yet these same men, by my personal knowledge, have in years prevented him from becoming a pauper. There are thousands of railroad employees in Kentucky, who provide for their families by their connection with railroads. These employees have brothers, fathers and friends who will rebuke the insult now being heaped upon them by disreputable hirelings who are trailing in the wake of Bill Goebel. Bryan can ill afford to put a finger in this contest. The "tolling manes," to which he so frequently refers, will attend to Goebel, and little "Hooray." The political nincompoops may howl, but "the truth is mighty and will prevail," and Goebel will be rebuked by an indignant, but a noble and long suffering people.

CHAS. E. JONES.
Jacksonville, Fla., Aug. 9.

Story of a Slave.
To be bound hand and foot for years by the chains of disease is the worst form of slavery George D. Williams, of Manchester, Mich. tells how such a slave was made free. He says: "My wife has been so helpless for five years that she could not turn over in bed alone. After using two bottles of Electric Bitters, she is wonderfully improved and able to do her own work." This supreme remedy for female diseases quickly cures nervousness, sleeplessness, melancholy, headache, fainting and dizzy spells. This miracle working medicine is a godsend to weak, sickly, run down people. Every bottle guaranteed. Only 50 cents. Sold by J. H. Williams, Druggist.

WOMEN AND MEN.

Where Liberty is Not There is My Country.

When the great French Revolution broke out, Thomas Paine felt an immediate wish to take a hand in it. His book "Common-Sense" had probably done more than any other book to bring the American Revolution to a point, and his other publication, "The Crisis," to carry it safely through. He had retired with honor, Congress voted him $3000 for his services, and the State of New York gave him five hundred acres of land, but he was not content to live on these comforts when he could help the cause of freedom elsewhere. When his friends urged him to stay at home and quoted to him the Latin motto, "Where liberty is, there is my country" (ubi libertas ibi patria), he said that this was a motto for a coward. The true motto for a brave man was he said, "Where liberty is not, there is my country"; and so he went to Paris and took a hand in the French Revolution. When he opposed the killing of the king, he was shot up in the Bastille, and only escaped the guillotine because, when the doors of those prisoners ordered to execution for the next day were marked with chalk, it happened that his door was open and was marked on the wrong side, being afterwards closed again, so that he escaped. Thus he followed up his motto, "Where liberty is not, there is my country."

For a century since his time the American nation has habitually acted on this motto and given its sympathy to the under side, Greece, Poland, Hungary, Italy, Ireland, Mexico, Cuba, the South American republics, have called forth the national sympathy, because they were or seemed to be oppressed. No one has asked whether their heroes were all Washingtons and their generals all Grants. Probably they were not. No doubt the prominent insurgent leaders, Bozaris, Kosuth, Garibaldi, called forth plenty of criticism. Bolivar was called more than once a braggart and a traitor, yet it was practically due to him that South America is now republican and not monarchical, and it is for this that his statue adorns American parks. So much for the leaders; and as for the people, there were always plenty who doubted, while the struggle lasted, whether the insurgents were worthy of freedom or could ever sustain a government of their own. Vincenzo, the great French minister, who sent Rochambeau and his army to serve us at Yorktown, always expected that the new American States would soon go to pieces. Sir George Trevelyan, in the best history of the American Revolution yet written, tells us that, when the war began, George III., his ministers, and his army agreed in the opinion that 'no population was ever composed of worse men or poorer creatures than the rebellious towns of Boston.' Probably there never yet was an insurrection, large or small, in which the party apparently stronger did not honestly believe the weaker party to be utterly incapable of self-government.

The flaw in the whole reasoning in such cases is in leaving out the principle of liberty. When a nation, or even a family, once enters on the project of managing the affairs of its neighbors, it is on the wrong track. It is as if a farmer assumed the right of confiscating the adjoining farm because he can raise better crops than its owner; or a shopkeeper should seize his neighbor's stock of goods on the ground that he can make more money out of it than the owner can. There is such a thing as personal ownership; freedom is freedom; and it is not for a nation born and reared on this theory to ignore it in judging the affairs of others. What would become of the neighborhood if Mrs. Jones, who manages her family rather ill, should come home and find that Mrs. Smith, her neighbor, has carried off the baby, on the ground that she can do better by it, and has therefore a natural right to it? No doubt there are extreme cases where the law must interfere and do this, but it is too great a responsibility to intrust to Mrs. Jones herself. The whole early history of free states usually consists in rebellion against the interference of other states which think themselves wiser and stronger. But the men who are remembered in history the longest are sometimes those who raise their voices against such aggressions, even when their own government commits them. Probably the thing by which the great Lord Chatham will be longest remembered will be his exclamation in Parliament, on November 18, 1777, "If I were an American, as I am an Englishman, while foreign troops were landed in my country I would never lay down my arms—never, never, never!"

Twice in history has the North American republic won just gratitude from the human race when it might have forfeited it by a policy less advanced. To this day, to be sure, Mr. Cecil Rhodes, engaged in his career

A Lonely Spot.

The dreariest spot in all the world, I care not what the zone, is home, sweet home, in summer-time When I am there alone.

The world is fair, the lawns are green, The sun pours down its gold, But in my lonely den I sit In cheerlessness and cold.

I wander up and down the stair, I go from room to room, And everything so silent is My heart is filled with gloom. The books, the treasures of my boy, Confront me everywhere, And mutely speak, but he, dear lad, The little chap's not there.

I look into the nursery And find it aspen and spick; To see no toys upon the floor Doth make me mortal sick! And when I turn to go, and spy Two empty little beds, It gives my heart a twist to miss Two curly little heads!

And in another room, near by, To see no patterns there, No scarers and no cutting-board, No needles in the chair, No cotton threads upon the wall, No spoons of silk about, The tears that well up in my eyes Suggest a waterspout.

Egad! 'tis not a pleasant thing, As some good folks suggest, To send one's family away And stay at home for rest. There's lots of quiet to be had, But give me rather noise, As long as quiet can't be had Along with little boys.—Harper's Bazar.

Smart Young Wife.

Young Mr. and Mrs. Smith were preparing to make a visit to friends for a few days. Their baby was only a month old, but was an important member of the family just the same. Mr. Smith was on the stairs and Mrs. Smith down stairs, putting on things and getting ready to start. "Hibby," she called out to her better half on the floor above, "please bring me my gloves! They are lying on the dresser. And bring me my overcoat and veil and that hat lying on top of the chiffonier and a few of those animal crackers for baby, and don't forget the baby's toothbrush."

Poor hubby had a hard time finding everything that his wife wanted. He was a long while making his appearance and finally his wife called to him. "What is keeping you, dear!"

"Oh, that confounded toothbrush for baby! I have everything but that."

Then Mrs. Smith laughed. "You silly duck," said she, "did you not know that I was only joking? The baby, bless her dear little heart, hasn't a tooth to her name."

That was why hubby got so mad and said things as he was coming down stairs. A man never likes to have a joke played on him by his wife.—Pittsburg Chronicle.

JEROME ALLEN, of Boone County.

There are only two men in Davis county for Goebel and his ticket, "Hoorey" Woodson and Capt. W. T. Ellis. The author of this statement is a Democrat of the old school, but not a "Latter Day Saint." Should this be questioned, the evidence in the case can be had by calling at this office.

The republic of Peru has adopted the gold standard. Up until recently Peru has had free silver, but experience has taught that country a lesson that we are striving to evade, and for the present, we are entirely out of danger. Bryan has ordered imperialism to the front rank and free silver to fall back to second place for reinforcement.

Jo Blackburn said in a recent speech "I will bet my soul's salvation against a counterfeit coin, that the Republicans will give the power would not repeal the Goebel election law." If the Goebel election law really insures fair elections Mr. Blackburn pays the Republicans a great compliment when he says they will not repeal a law which he claims was passed to keep them from stealing the State, but in point of fact, Blackburn meant to tell his audience that the Republicans would utilize the Goebel election law to steal elections with Goebel's help to muzzle the windy ex-Senator.

The open violation of the Prohibition law in Ohio county is potent to everyone who has given the matter any attention, and is a question that should be given immediate consideration by the good citizens of the county. While whisky was sold legally in the town of Hartford, the Republican has not thought it expedient to urge the people to suppress the sale of it in the smaller towns, but on the 31st of this month the legal sale of whisky will close in Hartford and Ohio county will again be a prohibition county, and if the good citizens of the county really desire to see the sale of whisky suppressed, this paper can be depended upon to assist any wisely directed effort to suppress it. The Republican will undertake no ill-timed crusade against the "blind tigers," but if there is a healthy public sentiment against the sale of intoxicants in the county, we will give whatever assistance we can to encourage it. The prohibition law should be enforced or repealed, there is no tenuous middle ground. We wait the action of the good citizens of Ohio county in regard to the matter.

The eyes of the nation are upon the political contest now on in Kentucky by reason of the unusual character of the question at issue. Those issues upon which political contests are usually fought are at present completely overshadowed by a popular demand for honest conventions and fair elections, growing out of the passage of the Goebel election law and the outrageous Music Hall conventions and honest elections are the ground work of Republican institutions, and without which no question of public interest can be rightly settled and to preserve these fifty thousand honest Kentucky Democrats, who hope for no reward, save the conclusion of duty done, have repudiated the Goebel oligarchy and will sustain their country's right against their party's wrong. Those Democrats who have dared to desert the Music Hall convention rather than condone its infamy, will do more than rescue Kentucky from a dangerous band of political highwaymen; their example will warn the political buccanniers of other states that vice and crime in politics must expect to meet a stubborn opposition at the hands of an outraged people. The defeat of Goebel by an overwhelming majority would mark the beginning of an era of pure politics in Kentucky and its influence for good would be felt throughout the country.

The Philippine question is an aggravating and trifling affair that has caused the administration a great deal of trouble and unrest. The insurrection has continued several months, but should be brought to a speedy close. There are two plausible reasons for having continued and prolonged this contest, the first reason was a failure to comprehend the strength of the Insurgents; and the second was fighting in an entirely strange country. It appears that Gen. Otis has not exercised the best strategy in his operations. It is certain that he failed to trap Aguinaldo as was frequently reported he would do at the next move of his forces. Nothing is more clear to the administration than a necessity for a larger army. To this end Secretary Root has determined to raise the number of men in actual service to 60,000. The action of the new secretary is meeting the approval of the press and country generally. The plans for the campaign to be opened as soon as the dry season comes will be aggressive and not defensive alone. In six weeks after the opening of the campaign Aguinaldo and his army should be prisoners of war and peace restored in Luzon at least. There have been a few daring exploits by some of the officials and men, but not in a single instance, to our knowledge, has the enemy been entrapped. When the fresh forces reach Manila we may expect a more vigorous campaign and a speedy conclusion of the disputed right of the United States to its acquired territory.

THE PRESENT CRISIS.

The present crisis in Kentucky politics has attracted the attention of journalists and politicians abroad, while in Kentucky it has called forth the greatest efforts of the politicians in both political parties to accede to the throne of supremacy, it has elicited the clergy from his exalted calling into the defense of a free ballot and the discussion of the deplorable condition now existing in state politics. There is a revolution in Kentucky politics similar in characteristics to no other in the history of the State. Indeed there is no record in the history of the nation of such an uprising of the people against a one man rule, duplicity, lawlessness, treachery and fraud. Revolutions are always attended, backed and supported by many of the very best, most successful and influential men in the boundaries of a nation, so it was when Patrick Henry in his magnificent address before the Virginia House of Burgesses made use of this significant language: "Give me liberty or give me death."

So it is to-day in Kentucky. Not a man ventures to deny or refute this statement. Notwithstanding this fact; that thousands of men are armed in the secret cause of freedom against the impending crisis, there is a spirit of uncertainty and unrest attending the future course of the State. It is to be hoped that that boasted Kentucky manhood will rise in its purity and power, armed with the sacred trust, the ballot, and relegate Caesarism to oblivion. Should we who have the power to crush this usurper fail, there is but one alternative left, that is to arm the noble womanhood of Kentucky with the ballot, or have Goebelism reign supreme.

It is not popular to advocate woman suffrage at present; but were there the opportunity has been granted her she has ever cast her vote against the evils that beset man. At every opportunity she has stamped the seal of doom upon the whisky question. Doubtless, it would be a blessing for all Kentucky, if suffrage were extended to her in this hour of great moment. It is certain that she could do us no greater harm than we have done ourselves.

A FALSE CHARGE.

What Christian denominations oppose the election of the Goebel ticket? Since the Baptist Association have commenced to rebuke the entire Goebelized ticket by passing resolutions denouncing the manner and procedure in the Louisville convention, some "jacklegs" who claim to be Christians, but on their faces is written hypocrisy, assume to say it is only the Baptist who openly oppose the election of Goebel. This charge upon its face is false, and ignorance alone is the ground for the assertion. In last week's REPUBLICAN, we printed an editorial from the Pentecostal Herald of Louisville, which is an avowed Methodist journal, denouncing the entire ticket. If the above charges were true, and those men who offer the resolutions and urge their adoption in the associations are ex-Confederates men who never scratched the Democratic ticket in their history. It would be an established fact that the Baptist church was certainly reflecting its mission. But the Baptists are not alone in the contest.

The Methodist will doubtless denounce Goebel at their conference this fall, the Presbyterians, it is hoped will not be slow in acting with the other denominations, and as for the Christians, or Campbellites as they are commonly called, Saelord's monument stands as a warning to his surviving brethren. Three Baptist Associations, to our knowledge, have passed resolutions pro above charge and many more are to follow. But the most significant feature of the Baptist church in Kentucky at this time, is that the majority of its members adhere to the principles of Democracy.

A BIT OF REASONING.

Sometime ago, about a score of sturdy farmers met at a neighbors to assist in the prosecution of some work which neighbors usually befriended each other in, and while resting they ventured to exchange their opinions of the present campaign, as usual. The crowd was composed of Republicans and Democrats in good standing and a few Populistic Bryanized Goebel-taught Democrats. A Republican opened the conversation by asking an ex-Confederate soldier, what in his opinion would be the result of the present campaign. His response was in favor of the Goebel ticket, as expected, but the Republican took issue with the aged farmer and presumed to defend his stand. At this juncture a thoroughly Goebelized Populist interrupted the conversation with these words: "The Republicans won't get there if they should get a majority of the votes, for Goebel will count them out." The ex-Confederate interposed with this in derogatory. "Neighbor, do you believe that Goebel will attempt such a thing?" The Populist's reply was: "I know it." In spite of this fact he declared that he would support Goebel, first, last and all the time.

In the absence of enlightenment and civilization, in the absence of common sense and reason, in the absence of truth and Christianity alone, can man make use of such language. We find no fault with any man for differing from us upon questions of importance, provided some logical reason can be offered for his position. But when a man frankly admits the prevalence of fraud, force and corruption and openly declares that he endorses and will support that state of affairs, we set the seal of ignorance, superstition and folly upon him. An intelligent man will make no such rash statements, no Christian gentleman can afford to lead such a course and no man of principle will allow party prejudice to become so riveted to his mind that he will even entertain such an idea. However it has been our displeasure to learn that many others have made use of the same assertion. For those who so desire to speak, we entertain the kindest respect, and least that the word of the Master be placed upon the standard for their benefit, and also that the clergy be sent to expound the truths to the lost.

OUR PURPOSE.

It is our purpose to give to our many readers the best material at command and to this end our efforts are directed. Our purpose is not a public quarrel with any, but upon the contrary, peace and good will to all. However, we sought in our last issue to draw our neighbor and contemporary, the Herald, into a fair and honest discussion of a question of paramount importance to the readers of both journals, but in vain. A comparison of the Ohio Election Law, of which our esteemed friend had occasion to boast to the recent past, with the Goebel Election Law would be material, such that would interest every man in Kentucky. In view of this fact, and in view of the fact also that the Herald, in order to fortify and prepare itself for any emergency, did send to the State of Ohio and procure a copy of the election laws of that State, we laid a challenge before the door of the Herald to give its readers the benefit of its research. This was a fair proposition, a proposition at which no man could take offense, but the Herald as usual, when it gets into deep water, "pooned, swooned, sullied and fainted." It acknowledges its inability to cope with the existing facts by its silence. The Herald should venture not upon questions so far beyond the reach of its mental caliber. It is before the public and does it dare defend its political corruption? Does it dare defend the inamous Goebel Law? Will it venture to compare two statutory acts between which there is no comparison? Naturally when a man is at sea without a chart or compass mid thick and heavy fog, his course is very cautiously guarded his progress slow, so it is with man when he has shouldered all he can possibly stand under, his way is guarded with exceedingly great care, and his steps sullen his progress retarded. By the Herald's profound silence, we are forced to liken it unto the over-burdened man. Should this effort, to draw an expression from our worthy contemporary fail, we will then understand that the efforts made by the Herald to secure food and nourishment for the Goebel Election Law have met with a disastrous failure and it will no longer attempt to defend this high-handed crime of the would be Governor of the great Commonwealth of Kentucky. This being acknowledged, we will refrain from further embarrassing this journal but will henceforth regard it with the slain.

The following lines were written by Ira Cox, an Ohio county soldier in the Philippines, who was killed August 12th, 1899, while in line of duty. Mr. Cox was a son of Mrs. Olive Cox, a sister of Mr. W. H. Maury, of this place:

It is a wonderful story,
Spread it far and wide;
And let your children's children
Re echo it with pride.
How General Hale the fearless,
His name immortal made
When he swept the Manila river,
With his famous light brigade
There is Nebraska, South Dakota,
And the twenty second too,
They formed the line a mile away
And steadily forward drew.
And where the bullets flew thickest
The boys were undismayed,
They crossed the river, won the day
This famous light brigade.

Then onward to Malolos,
The boys were full of fight;
The rebels left the town that day,
For they were filled with flight.
And Senior Aguinaldo,
Says, "Boys, I am afraid,
For here comes Hale a raising hell
With his famous light brigade."

Oh Hale he is a soldier
If there ever was one,
As fine a one as you'll ever meet,
Beneath the Southern Sun.
"There goes my boys in brown" says he,
"Best soldier ever made;
And hell itself can't stop a charge
Of this famous light brigade."

MRS. FLORENCE ALLEN,
Executrix of Christopher Allen.
Prohibition Speaking.

I am glad to have the privilege of announcing through the columns of the REPUBLICAN that Prof. B. L. Rockwood, of Indiana, will lecture at Hartford at 1 p. m. and at 8 p. m. on Tuesday, September 25th, and at Beaver Dam, Wednesday, September 26th at night. Prof. Rockwood is one of the greatest speakers on the Prohibition platform and should have crowded house at each meeting. He is favorable in presenting his subjects, yet sympathetic and kind, with a vein of pathos and humor running through his lecture provoking alike tear from the eyes and laughter from the soul. Go out to hear him.

GREETED BY 6000 AUDITORS

Gen. Taylor Handled the Goebel Bill Without Gloves in His London Speech.

Sketches From His Speech are Here Given.

THE GOEBEL LAW.

But the crowning act of infamy perpetrated by this "vicious body of deformed Democrats and degenerate Americans" was the enactment of the Goebel election law. In the language uttered February 26, 1898, by the newspaper which is now the chief organ of the Music Hall convention ticket:

"The people may well stand aghast before the revolutionary election bill which has, like some dread monster, suddenly emerged from the fastnesses of passion and error through which the Legislature has been threading its tortuous way. It is safe to say that the annals of free government will be sought in vain for anything approaching it in shameless effrontery and unbecoming deformity."

"This force bill gives the voters of Kentucky not a ray of hope. It makes no claim or show of fairness. It places exclusive in the hands of three irresponsible persons to be named by the authors of the measure itself the entire electoral machinery of the State. That is the whole of it. In one word, and at one fell swoop, Kentucky is to become the subject of a Triumvirate, which is to decide who shall hold office and who shall not. Nominally, the people are to be permitted still to go through the form of elections. They are to be permitted still to vote. The ballot box is not actually abolished. But the Triumvirate is in each and every case to cast up the returns and determine the result."

My friends, the measure has been publicly and privately discussed and commented upon in the press; you have seen it in operation, and are more or less familiar with its provisions. But it cannot be discussed too often, nor at too great length. If you will bear with me I will speak briefly of those features which render it particularly odious and an absolute menace to your most sacred rights.

It creates a State Election Commission composed of three men to be elected by the Legislature. There is no provision for a division of these commissioners among the political parties. This board not only appoints and removes county boards at pleasure, but sits as a court of contest.

No provision is made for a division of the members of the county boards between the parties. The people are not to be consulted as to who shall hold those county offices. The State Board can arbitrarily act upon all questions and its decisions are final. It can remove county boards without cause, and there is no redress. The county board appoints the officers of elections, and while they are required by the law, as in the old law, to divide the election officers between the parties, they are left at liberty to determine for themselves who are Republicans and who are Democrats. It is the county board be Democratic, it has the power under the law to select as Republican election officers any man whom the members of that board are pleased to call Republicans, no matter if they be openly defying their party organization. Neither the Republican organization nor its candidates could prevent the perpetration of this outrage. Incompetent and unreliable Republicans can be appointed in ever precinct. The Sheriff, who is the umpire between two judges (the clerk having no voice), may in every voting precinct be a Democrat, or belong to the party having control of the election machinery. The county board may without cause, at any time, remove any election officer, even on the day of election. And I am told that such a thing did occur in Kenton county at the last election.

INJUSTICES OF THE LAW.

When a law fails to provide against inequalities and wrong, it is equivalent to a direction to do wrong. To make possible is to license. To place the power to oppress in the hands of any particular class of men is an absolute guarantee that wrong and oppression will follow. Under this law the Legislature may create a State machine; this machine may in turn create a county machine; the county machine may create a precinct machine, which may, with impunity, rape the ballot-box and overthrow the will of the people. The possibilities for evil of this law have been illustrated in its practical operations.

The Legislature of 1898 was overwhelmingly Democratic. It elected three State Commissioners, everyone of whom was and is now a Democrat, and a personal partisan of the author of the measure. Thus in its very inception we find a perversion of justice and equality. Where is a semblance of justice in the act placing in the hands of the party as friends of one party and one man the supreme control of the election machinery of the entire State? This board thus deliberately packed, first selected a secret list belonging to the same party, and the devoted adherents of the same man. It then proceeded to create 119 county boards, and with not a single exception packed these boards with a partisan majority, adhering to the same party as the State board. In many counties every member of the board belongs to one party.

The county boards, in keeping with Men do not like to go to doctors. Nine times out of ten they wait until they are laid flat on their backs before they will consult a physician. There is some reason for this, for when a business man feels out of sorts and goes to a physician, he is often given violent drugs that make him, for a time, unfit for business and really sick. There is a way of avoiding both extremes—that of neglecting the health and that of taking violent drugs that rack the entire system—it is always to keep on hand a bottle of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. If a man will resort to this great medicine whenever he feels that he is out of sorts and threatened with illness, he may keep in good health. It is the great appetite builder, blood maker and general builder. It fills the arteries with the rich, red, tissue building blood of health. It does not make flabby fat like cod liver oil, but the solid, muscular and nerve tissues of health. It does not make corpulent people more corpulent.

Dr. Pierce's medicine, writes Mrs. Nelson Smith, of Mount Vernon, Jefferson Co., Ill.: "About six years ago I had grip, ending with bronchitis and consumption. In the spring of 1891 my condition became very serious. I had consumption and a coughed day and night, could not lie down at all. My family doctor said I could not get well. The neighbors came in to see me, and a lady friend recommended Dr. Pierce's medicine. I bought a bottle of his 'Golden Medical Discovery' and 'Purifier of the Blood.' After using these medicines, I found I was receiving benefit and comfort. I weighed 120 lbs. and commenced taking medicine, soon weighed 130 lbs. I sleep well, have a splendid appetite, feel well, and believe I am entirely cured. I am thankful in God and to Dr. Pierce for those wonderful medicines. I want to add that I am a warmer friend to my neighbors and friends."

the partisan spirit manifested by the Legislature and State Board, in many instances so appointed the election officers as to deprive all but one party of any voice or control in the election affairs. Often where the State Board appointed one Republican member of the county boards it turned out that the appointee had not been recommended by the Republican committee, and in some instances was a personal enemy of the Republican nominees. In some of the counties of the State the Republican member of the county board was not notified that he need not expect a single Republican sheriff of election. Last year in Polk county, the county board, without the semblance of authority, refused to count or consider the vote in a number of precincts.

PUBLIC PRINTING.

I desire now to briefly call your attention to the cost of public printing under three years each of the present and former administrations. The last three years of the Democratic administration the public printing cost $93,494.03; the same period of time under the Republicans it cost $49,265.77.

The record books under the last three years of Democratic administration cost $67,580.07; while under a like period or Republican administration, record books cost only $25,006.12.

Thus, in the matters of public printing record books there has been saved to the taxpayers of Kentucky the magnificent sum of $36,912.12, in three years of Republican administration. To further illustrate: In 1895 in 8 qire medium record book cost the State $12.16. The present administration now purchases the same book from the same company for $6.12. In 1895 671,000 yellow Assessors' blanks cost the State $68.00; in 1899 700,000 of the same blanks cost the State but $18.00.

There is another matter that the people ought to know. Four years ago the former administration, for the purpose of deceiving the people, during the campaign of that year, over-estimated the amount of money due the teachers for 1895 to the extent of $124,612.97, and declared the per capita to be $2.81. Under the law the present administration was compelled to deduct from the school fund due the teachers for 1896 the tremendous sum. The cruel injustice practiced on the teachers of 1896 for political ends is perfectly apparent. This is a sample of the methods resorted to by the former administration to deceive the voters. The school per capita under the Republican administration has, after the Democratic deficit was met, steadily grown each year.

Resolutions.

Whereas, our Supreme Grand Master in his infinite wisdom and mercy has seen fit to call from labor to retirement, our esteemed brother Virgil D. Fulkerson, who died at his home in Ceraivo, Ky., Aug. 2, 1899.

Therefore be it resolved, That in his death Masonry has lost a valuable friend and support and the community a shining example of benevolence and industry. Resolved, that we as Masons extend our deepest sympathy to the bereaved family and that these resolutions be spread upon our records.

Be it further resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be sent to the wife of our deceased brother, also that a copy be sent to the Masonic Home Journal, Hartford Herald and Hartford Republican for publication.

He will continue business at Magan in connection with his business here.

Rough River Lodge Knights of Pythias of Hartford will give a picnic outing to the members of the lodge, families and others who may be invited, Saturday, September 2nd. The primary object of the meeting is that the families of the members shall become more intimately acquainted. Extensive preparations have been made and all are anticipating the most enjoyable time of the season. Mutton and burgout will be served.

The following gentlemen have been appointed as delegates from Ohio county to the thirty-fourth annual Sunday School convention of Kentucky which convenes in Louisville the last three days of this month: Messrs. N. C. Daniel, F. J. Felix, Fox Rogers, B. D. Ring, H. W. Patterson, R. L. Barnes, T. J. Morton, A. S. Worsley, Messrs. Emma Barnes, and Anna Newton.

Some parties on Green River, together with a few of Hartford's business men are planning to put a new boat on Green river to run from Evansville to Bowling Green, Ky., the intention of the firm is to make this the fastest transportation line between the two cities. If the project is ago, Hartford will have two boats per week, whereas she only has one. The Hartford packet, which now runs to Evansville and Rochester will only run to Livermore, making connections with the main line. With a good water route to Evansville and an electric line to Beaver Dam or McHenry, Hartford would be an enterprising and up-to-date town.

"A Gentle Wind of Western Birth"

Tells no sweeter story to humanity than the announcement that the health-giver and health-bringer, Hood's Sarsaparilla, tells of the birth of an era of good health. It is the one reliable specific for the cure of all blood, stomach, and liver troubles.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

The Teachers of Hartford College have arranged for a reunion of the students and friends of the school, on Friday evening Sept. 8th, 1899. This is quite a new feature added to the social department of the school and all should attend. A nice program has been prepared for the evening. The program is as follows: Quartette Dr. J. R. Pirtle, Mr. D. R. Thomas, Misses Nola Her and Sallie Cate. Opening Remarks—T. J. Morton, Vocal Solo—Miss Sallie Cate. Instrumental Solo—Miss Lucy Wolcott. Recitation—Miss Grace Roll. Everybody invited, especially teachers and Hartford College students.

Bishop-Hocker.

Yesterday evening in the city of Louisville Lieutenant Oscar Bishop and Miss Mabel Hocker, both of Hartford, were quietly married. It is presumed that the young people went to the city for the novelty of the affair and not because of any objections, for it was a mutual union. Lieutenant Bishop has been a citizen of Hartford for sometime, where, by his manly and courteous men he has made many friends. As Deputy County Clerk under Mr. D. M. Hocker, he was kind and obliging to the people, faithful and untiring in the performance of his official duties.

When hostilities broke out between the United States and Spain, he offered his service to his country and was made First Lieutenant Company D 3d Ky., Volunteers. He performed his duties as a soldier and officer faithfully and fearlessly, winning for himself the friendship and love of his fellow soldiers and the respect of his officers. Since his efficiency and worth as an officer have been recognized by the higher officials he has received an appointment as First Lieutenant in the 47th U. S. V. Army and will soon fight his native land to do battle in the Philippines.

Miss Hocker is one of Hartford's most esteemed and winsome young ladies and well merits the man of her choice. The bride was accompanied to the city by her father, Mr. D. M. Hocker, Wednesday evening. The groom in company with Mr. Jas. Sandertur left Hartford yesterday morning destined for the same place. The bridal party will return to-day at noon. THE REPUBLICAN extends congratulations and best wishes for a happy future.

Taylor-Monroe.

The 7th of September is the day set apart by two of Beaver Dam's prominent young people for their nuptial ceremonies. On this day Mr. Elmer Taylor and Miss Maude May Monroe will be married at the home of the bride's parents Mr. and Mrs. Felix Monroe. Both of the contracting parties are excellent young people, coming from the best families of Beaver Dam. Since their acquaintance, about four years ago, their friendship has been of the most congenial nature ripening into heaven's richest blessing to be bestowed upon man.

If their future be guided by the past their reward will be an earthly paradise. The REPUBLICAN enters its best wishes for their future.

Obituary.

Through the operation of nature's law established by an inflexible Providence our ranks have been broken by the death of one of our most worthy members, who was born January 21st, 1854.

We feel the loss we have sustained by the death of one friend and member of this Sunday school, Virgil D. Fulkerson, who departed this life August 2, 1899 and know of the still

IS YOUR HAIR TURNING GRAY?

What does your mirror say? Does it tell you of some little streaks of gray? Are you pleased? Do your friends of the same age show this loss of power also?

Just remember that gray hair never becomes darker without help, while dark hair rapidly becomes gray when once the change begins.

Ayer's Hair Vigor
will bring back to your hair the color of youth. It never fails. It is just as sure as that heat melts snow, or that water quenches fire. It cleanses the scalp also and prevents the formation of dandruff. It feeds and nourishes the bulbs of the hair making them produce a luxuriant growth. It stops the hair from falling out and gives a fine soft finish to the hair as well.

We have a book on the Hair and Scalp which you may obtain free if you do not object all the benefits you expect from the use of the Vigor, write the Director about it.

Address, DR. J. C. AYER, Lowell, Mass.

heavier loss sustained by those who were nearest and dearest to him.

We recognized in him a true and faithful worker in our Sunday School, and we are desirous of testifying in respect for his memory and expressing our earnest sympathy with the household deprived of its early treasure.

We tenderly condole with the family and relatives of our deceased member in their hour of trial and sad affliction.

In our natural sorrow for the loss of one true member we feel consoled in the belief that it is well with him for whom we mourn.

When musing on companions gone. We doubly feel ourselves alone.

P. L. WOOD, Com.

Wise Jurors.

Witnesses and visitors at Circuit Court will bring their watches and clocks to A. E. Pate, the Jeweler, to have them repaired. The best work and lowest prices guaranteed.

"Circumstances alter Cases."

In cases of dyspepsia, nervousness, catarrh, rheumatism, eruptions, etc., the circumstances may be altered by purifying and enriching the blood with Hood's Sarsaparilla. Good appetite and good digestion, strong nerves and perfect health take the place of these diseases. Hood's Sarsaparilla is America's Greatest Medicine and the best that money can buy.

Hood's Pills cure biliousness, sick headache.

Two Largo Schools.

The Southern Normal School and Bowling Green Business College of Bowling Green, Ky., are meeting with phenomenal success. The Normal and Business College are two separate schools under the same management, but under separate charters.

The schools have widened their influence and extended their patronage until most every State in the union is represented. The enrollment during the past year went beyond the most sanguine expectation of the management of the schools.

The people of Bowling Green have taken special interest in the schools which have become the pride of the city. The citizens are backing the institutions with money and influence, and have just recently raised a large amount of money to be used in the erection of a magnificent new college building with modern equipments, and new brick building. They offer these buildings without rent and indebtedness to the management of the schools.

All parties who contemplate entering a Normal or Business College should write H. H. Cherry, General Manager, for information before entering elsewhere.

HORTON, KY.

Mr. G. B. Thompson, who has been very sick with typhoid fever for the past few weeks, is rapidly improving and will soon be able to attend to business again.

Mrs. Mary Abby has nearly recovered.

Miss Smith and Wright are both on the sick list.

The school at this place began August 7th with a good attendance.

The Horton Union Society is on the increase and report a good meeting Friday night, August 12.

Mr. Will Williams, of Beaver Dam, made a flying trip to this place last Tuesday.

Mr. Henry Martin, of Taylor Mines,

Followed by Heart Disease, Cured by DR. MILES' HEART CURE.

DR. MILES' HEART CURE. I was attacked by LaGrippe last week with a weak heart. I had run down in flesh to mere skin and bone. I could not sleep lying down for smoking opium. Frequent sharp darting pains and palpitation caused a constant fear of sudden death, nothing could induce me to remain away from home over night. My local physician prescribed Dr. Miles' Heart Cure and in a few days I was able to sleep well and the pains gradually lessened, and finally ceased. I reduced the dose, having gained fifteen pounds, and am now feeling better in every way than I have for years.
